Printing

This grade is used mainly for commercial inkjet printing; it is universally printable with dye inks, and suitable for use with some pigment inks. We recommend checking the suitability of this product on your individual printer before use as print results will vary depending on print engine and ink formulation.

Due to the nature of this print technology, applications that require a high level of water resistance may need to be over varnished or over laminated to protect the printed image.

Due to the nature of this gloss coated product the top coating is "sticky" to touch - this is an inherent characteristic of the product.
